Alexander Haig
Department of State
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. Secretary:

A perhaps more accurate and realistic appraisal description of the recent raid by Israel on Iraq might be to liken it to the attack on Pearl Harbor rather than call it a preventive strike to prevent another holocaust. After all, [illegible] 50,000 nuclear devices presently in existence [illegible] explosive capacity of more than three tons [illegible] equivalent type, and these are overwhelmingly in the hands of the United States and the Soviet Union. Should a conflict erupt between either of these countries would become a holocaust [illegible] unbelievable proportions as to make every [illegible] past or present, [illegible].

Despite [illegible] the Arab world, it seems that whatever Israel does [illegible] is responsible for. And there now seems to be [illegible] a conflict arises, our support unfortunately [illegible] the Arab people, right or wrong. My [illegible] all correspondence, Newsweek magazine and my [illegible] unbelievable [illegible] death at the hands [illegible] [illegible] consumption [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] attack on Iraq, then we will pay. And we have given up our self-determination in the area and are perfectly willing to have Israel alone formulate and execute United States foreign policy in the Middle East.

Finally, please, please don't let me hear the cries of anti-semitism for having written this. Because if an analysis is made against Israel, I have written it, am anti-Semitic, but I am pro something which is pro-American.

Sincerely,

[redacted]